ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the first, we would like to thank Almighty ALLAH for enabling us to successfully complete our e-Project soundly and orderly.

we would like to express our deepest gratitude to our teachers and guider “Madam Kajal and Sir Faizan” for their cordial support throughout this e-Project . Their motivation , generous advices, constant supervision , intense and enthusiastic encouragement during the e-Project helped us to shape this e-Project in a better way.

we would like to thank to all students who have shown their interest and cooperation during e-Project.

Title:

Festival.com

Objectives :

The main objectives of this website are:

- To design responsive website
- It provides the history of major religions around the world.
- It provides information of major religion festivals celebrated around the world.
- This website provides a good user experience as the flow of this website is quite easy.

Description:

This website gives detail about various religions and their religious festivals .

For further knowledge user can access to mentioned history links in Knowledge section on one click.

This website also contains Book section by visiting Book user can feel easy to purchase book of his/her interest.

For any query user can contact directly to any of the person contact mentioned in navigation bar of header section.

For feedback user can share his/her opinions regarding website in mentioned feedback in navigation bar.

e-PROJECT ANALYSIS

---

INTRODUCTION:

Website was created according to “Processes In User Interface Design” and “Elements of UX Design” :

METHODOLOGY:

eProject Design:

Here are above approaches that were used to design a website.

Elements of UX Design

➤ Research:

Through the research , it was evaluated that what UI supports and helps user behavior in a way that users will feel it natural and effective .Numbers of research related to websites were carried to collect the information.

➤ Visual Design:

Visual design represents the aesthetics (look-and-feel) of a website and its associated components.

It utilized the visual elements such as shapes , colors, and images to deliver a clear message to the users.

➤ Usability:

Usability is the combination of various factors including effectiveness , efficiency of use , engagement ,error tolerance, and ease of learning were kept in mind while designing this website.

➤ Information Architecture:

Information architecture focuses on organizing , structuring , and labeling content in an effective and sustainable way , so that the user can find relevant information and complete their tasks easily.

So the above mentioned information architecture was also considered while designing website.

➤ Interaction Design:

Interaction design is a user-centric approach of designing an interactive system.

Consistent layout , navigation and representation of the information to help the users learn the system more quickly.

Processes In User Interface Design:

➤ Interface analysis

The profile of user was kept in mind who will engage with this website .It defines the user's skill and capabilities ,and the level of understanding and his/her role in the process.

➤ Interface design

Using the information developed during interface analysis, the interface design activity commenced. In this stage , user states were generated and explored to define a set of interface objects and actions. These objects then served as the basis for the creation of screen layout that illustrated graphical design and placement of icons , specification and titling for menus and specification of menu items and so on.

➤ Interface construction/implementation

Once the design model was created , it was implemented as a sketch .The sketch enabled usage scenarios to be evaluated and continued with development tools to complete the construction.

➤ Interface validation

Once an operational UI sketch was created , it was evaluated to determine whether it meets the needs of the user.

Practical Implementation :

Then the practical work had started with whatever had been analyzed and implemented accordingly.

First the fundamental parts or elements were designed in Container:

Input Components:

- Button
- Radio Button
- Check box
- Text Field

Navigational Components:

- Tags
- Icons
- Breadcrumbs

Informational Components:

- Tooltip
- Counter Up

Multiple images were placed in website for evaluation but afterwards selected the best that goes with background with the help of CSS language.

Lastly, by JavaScript library(AOS) distinct animations of components (style) were placed, tested then selected.

Rechecking & Resolving:

After completion of moment after moment to evaluate either some error encounter or not. Certainty arises scrutinize error later researched it what are the problems that arises and how can we deal with it. Never ever completely changed the model just resolved it with proper understanding of the issue.

Conclusion:

website developing is not a cup of tea it requires a lot of dedication and concentration in designing, building concepts, implementing and afterwards inspecting it.

The world's primary religions fall into two categories: Abrahamic religions, such as Christianity, Judaism, and Islam; and Indian religions, which include Hinduism, Buddhism, Sikhism,

Christianity

Islam

Hinduism

Christianity is the largest, with more than two billion followers. Christianity is based on the life and teachings of Jesus Christ and is approximately 2,000 years old.

Islamic statement of witness, or shahada, "There is no god but Allah". Muslims believe he created the world in six days and sent prophets such as Noah, Abraham, Moses, David, Jesus, and lastly Muhammad, who called people to worship only him; rejecting idolatry and polytheism.

Hindus believe in the doctrines of samsara (the continuous cycle of life, death, and reincarnation) and karma (the universal law of cause and effect). One of the key thoughts of Hinduism is "atman," or the belief in soul. This philosophy holds that living creatures have a soul, and they're all part of the supreme soul.

Buddhism

Sikhism

Judaism

Buddhism is an Indian religion or philosophical tradition based on a series of original teachings attributed to Gautama Buddha. It originated in ancient India as a Shramaṇa tradition sometime between the 6th and 4th centuries BCE, spreading through much of Asia.

Sikhs commonly call God, Waheguru (Wa-HE-goo). Sikhs regard men and women as equal in all spheres of life • Sikhs believe in equality amongst all human beings, regardless of race or caste. The freedom to choose and practice religion freely is at the foundation of Sikhism.

Judaism is an Abrahamic, monotheistic, and ethnic religion comprising the collective religious, cultural, and legal tradition and civilization of the Jewish people. It has its roots in an organized religion in the Middle East during the Bronze Age.

Christams

The traditionally Christian holiday is a celebration of the birth of the baby Jesus in Bethlehem to Joseph and the Virgin Mary. The English term "Christmas" comes from the combination of the words "mass" and "Christ". It is celebrated on 25 December.

Easter

Easter is celebrated by Christians as a joyous holiday because it represents the fulfillment of the prophecies of the Old Testament and the revelation of God's salvific plan for all of humankind. In commemorating the Resurrection of Jesus, Easter also celebrates the defeat of death and the hope of salvation. Easter fall on any Sunday between March 22 and April 25

Islamic Religious Festivals

There are several Islamic festivals that provide time for Muslims to reflect and celebrate their faith.

The two most commonly celebrated festivals are Eid-ul-Fitr and Eid-ul-adha.

Eid-ul-Fitr

Eid al-Fitr - which means 'festival of the breaking of the fast' - is celebrated at the end of Ramadan, a month when many adult Muslims fast.

Eid-ul-Adha

Eid al-Fitr - which means 'festival of the breaking of the fast' - is celebrated at the end of Ramadan, a month when many adult Muslims fast.

Hindu Religious Festivals

There are several Hindu festivals that provide time for hindu to reflect and celebrate their faith.

The two most commonly celebrated festivals are Holi and Dewali.

Get Started

Holi

Holi also celebrates the Hindu god Krishna and the legend of Holika and Prahlad. Hiranyakashipu was an evil king. He had special powers that made him nearly invincible and he wanted everyone in his kingdom to worship him. Today, Hindus light bonfires on Holi to represent the triumph of good over evil.

Diwali

It is a Festival of Lights and Hindus celebrate it with joy. During this festival, people light up their houses and shops with Diyas (small cup-shaped oil lamp made of baked clay). They worship the Lord Ganesha for welfare and prosperity and Goddess Lakshmi for wealth and wisdom.

Buddhist Religious Festivals

There are several Buddhist festivals that provide time for Buddhist to reflect and celebrate their faith.

The two most commonly celebrated festivals are Wesak and Parinirvana Day.

Parinirvana

Parinirvana Day is an annual festival, observed in some Mahayana countries, that remembers the death of the Buddha when he reached the age of 80. When the Buddha died, Buddhists believe that he entered a state called Parinirvana, which means Nirvana without end.

Wesak

Wesak, also spelled Vesak, Sanskrit Vaishakha, Pali Vesakha, most important of the Theravada Buddhist festivals, commemorating the birth, enlightenment, and death of the Buddha. The event is observed on the full-moon day of the lunar month Vesakha, which falls in April or May.

Vaisakhi

Vaisakhi as a major Sikh festival marks the birth of the Khalsa order by Guru Gobind Singh, the tenth Guru of Sikhism, on March 30th 1699.

Guru Nanak birthday

Guru Nanak was born on April 15th 1469 at Rai-Bhoi-di Talwandi in the present district of Shekhupura (Pakistan), now Nanakana Sahib. Every year people celebrate Guru Nanak's Birth with fireworks and processions through the streets. In Sikh temples - Gurdwaras - the Sikh holy book, Guru Granth Sahib, is read aloud in full. Candles are lit in homes and in public places like offices and shops.

Judaism Religious Festivals

There are several Judaism festivals that provide time for Sikhs to reflect and celebrate their faith. The two most commonly celebrated festivals are Passover (or Pesach in Hebrew) and Yom Kippur.

Passover

Passover is often celebrated with great pomp and ceremony, especially on the first night, when a special family meal called the seder is held. At the seder, foods of symbolic significance commemorating the Hebrews' liberation are eaten, and prayers and traditional recitations are performed.

Yom Kippur

The purpose of Yom Kippur is to effect individual and collective purification by the practice of forgiveness of the sins of others and by sincere repentance for one's own sins against God.

All religions in the world have festivals. Festivals are universal.

Christian History

We may define a Christian as anyone who commits themselves to following the person and teachings of the first century historical Jesus, who is often given the title of the 'Christ' (meaning God's anointed one). This definition however immediately invites controversy, because there are some who would insist that to be a Christian the person must also be baptised, others that they must believe in the Trinity, and others that no one is truly Christian until they have had a personal encounter with Jesus, and experienced their sins being forgiven. For the purposes of this article then, we will accept that anyone claiming to be a Christian is recognised as that. This keeps the field wide, allows us to be inclusive in our overview of the religion, and reminds us that there is a diversity of worldviews within Christianity. The core historical beliefs of Christianity are summed up in the Nicene Creed, which is recited by Christians of many denominations in their regular acts of worship. This Creed was drawn up in 325CE by the Council of Nicaea (a gathering of all bishops from across the world) as a statement of orthodoxy and as a defence against heresies. The Creed explicitly states the belief that God is Three-in-One, or

Muslim History

The word Islam is derived from the Arabic root 'salima' which means peace, harmony and submission. Islam, referring to the religion, is the submission of the creation to the will of God and its co-existence in peace and harmony. Prophet Muhammad (pbuh) began to receive the last and final revelation from Allah in the year 610 CE. Over a 23 year period, the revelation was received and recorded in the form of the Qur'an. Today, Islam is a worldwide religion with over 1,220 million adherents. This is about 19% of the world's population and it is growing rapidly. Without doubt, the Prophet Muhammad (pbuh) is the key figure who has been the most influential for Muslims. In Islam, he is the Seal of the prophets sent by God and it is through him that the foundations of Islam were laid down. It is because of him that Islam flourished and nowadays is the fastest growing religion in the world even after 14 centuries. Khadijah, the first wife of the Prophet Muhammad (pbuh), is seen as the mother of Islam, as it is she who gave all she had in the way of Islam which initiated the success of the religion in the early days. She was an eminent woman who was highly respected by both men and women. She was the wealthiest woman in Arabia who was very powerful and influential. There is a difference of opinion between the two main

Hindu History

Hinduism is sometimes introduced as the world's oldest religion, at least 5000 years old on the evidence of ancient texts and archaeological remains, but it is also claimed by others to date from the conditions created by either Muslim or British rule, when arguably the resulting engagement with others ways of thinking and/or living prompted a sense of religious unity on the part of those now called Hindus. Another answer would be to say that, as the Sanatana Dharma (eternal religion), it is timeless and without beginning. However, whether Hinduism as a whole rather than specific expressions can be equated with Sanatana Dharma can be questioned. It could also be argued that as an invented label that does not correspond well with reality, Hinduism does not exist and never did, so cannot be said to have begun. Even if you do not know much about Hinduism, you are bound to have some preconceptions. It is worth stopping to think what these are and from where they have come. Various images may be conjured up: hippies in the 1960s when the Beatles travelled to India to meet the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi; International Society for Krishna Consciousness (ISKCON) devotees wearing saffron and dancing in the streets, chanting 'Hare Krishna'; the Indian nationalist M.K. Gandhi, known as the Mahatma ('great self/soul'),

Buddhist History

One way of answering 'what is Buddhism?' would be to say that Buddhism is one of largest and most influential religious traditions in the world, sharing with Christianity and Islam the vision of spreading to the whole of humanity rather than being limited to a particular ethnic or national group. In the nineteenth century it was estimated that Buddhism was a major influence on 40% of the world's population. Even after the upheavals of the twentieth century, especially the adoption of non-religious Marxist/Maoist ideologies in China and several other countries where Buddhism was previously important, it is claimed by most sources (such as Wikipedia, adherents.com, worldpopulation.com) that there are about 500–535 million adherents, or somewhere between 7–10% of the world's population. An alternative view is that there could be really more like 1.6 billion or 22%, mainly reliant on counting much larger numbers of Chinese people as Buddhists, and counting people who include some Buddhist practices in their lives (buddhaweekly.com). Perhaps the figure is somewhere between the two, and of course, it depends on who you count as a Buddhist and the methods of collecting the data. Most textbooks would say that Buddhism began about 2,500 years ago in India with the teaching of a man who became known as 'the Buddha' ('the enlightened one'), in other words, the person who walks up to the truth

Sikhi History

For Sikhs the Ten Gurus are the foundation of Sikhi and the main sources of Sikh inspiration. The Gurus are considered by Sikhs to be spiritually perfect and morally correct. Sikhi began with the teachings of Guru Nanak (1469–1539), who came from Talwandi, near Lahore (now Pakistan). Guru Nanak's teachings were composed in the context of, but distinguished from, the Hinduism and Islam of his day. An example is that he names Azrael as the angel of death. This is a name found in the Book of Tobit for a personality important both in the Old Testament and the Qur'an. At the same time, he talks about Yama, a god of death mentioned in Hindu and Buddhist scriptures. Guru Nanak emphasised meditation on the One (Naam Japna) and taught that all human beings were equal, regardless of caste or creed. As well as preaching against prejudice and unjust discrimination, he put his words into action by starting the institution of the langar, where people sit together to eat for free without any distinction. He was followed by nine further Gurus: – Guru Angad (1504–1552) – Guru Amar Das (1479–1574) – Guru Ram Das (1534–1581) – Guru Arjan (1563–1606) – Guru Hargobind (1595–1644) – Guru Har Rai (1630–1661) – Guru Harkrishan (1656–1664) – Guru Tegh Bahadur (1621–1675) – The final human Guru, Guru Gobind Singh (1666–1708) – who established the Khalsa Panth and founded the city of Amritsar.

Jewish History

The main figures associated with the foundation of Judaism are those who appear in the Jewish Scriptures. Perhaps the most significant of these are: – Adam and Eve – Noah 56tr442(although these three all predate the establishment of the Jewish people) – Abraham – Moses – David Adam and Eve: whether regarded as historical personages or mythical concepts Adam and Eve appear at the beginning of the Biblical accounts. The first Creation account in Genesis 1 says that Adam and Eve were made by G-d at the same time: And G-d said, "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness. They shall rule the fish of the sea, the birds of the sky, the cattle, the whole earth, and all the creeping things that creep on earth." And G-d created man in His image, in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them (Genesis 1:26-27). The account in Genesis 2 suggests that at first G-d made a human being but, having been unable to find a partner for this human, created a female from the human's ribs and at this point the original human becomes male. [This subtlety is lost in the translation from the Hebrew.] The Lord G-d planted a garden in Eden, in the east, and placed there the man whom He had formed ... And the man gave names to all the cattle and to the birds of the sky and to all the wild
